When a medical trial goes awry, two elderly people get a second chance at life. One of them is a man with a wasted life, the other a wealthy heiress whose life was wasted for her. Where will previous lifetimes of mistakes take them? Due to a side effect of medication taken in an experimental drug trial, four people with hopely different backgrounds are thrown together. Two return to their youth and begin new lives—backed by lifetimes of experience and unexpectedly altered values.

Will the greed of others tear them apart, or will a lifetime of loneliness bring them together? Who is trying to obtain the secret to their newly found youth—and what is their enemy willing to do to get it? Will all the results of their efforts be destroyed when they have to reveal their tale to the police?
