After he was unable to stop the tragic bombing of an elementary school, a quick-witted FBI agent isolates himself from his distinguished career and the rest of the world. But when an ex-congressman's son is abducted, he is pulled back into the action. He doesn't want the assignment anymore than he wants his new partner--a cocky, African-American woman determined to prove herself. Together, they are locked in a race with a kidnapper who becomes increasingly unstable with every tick of the clock.
